

SaskTel As-a-Service (aaS) Offerings

If you've been reading computing and technology news and reviews in the last 5-10 years, you've probably heard the term "software as a service" or SaaS. You may have heard "platform as a service" or PaaS and "infrastructure as a service" or laaS, too. But you may not know that SaskTel offers a variety of aaS products perfect for making life easier for Saskatchewan businesses.

aaS refers to a number of cloud computing solutions that allow customers to use vendor-provided infrastructure, platforms, or software to suit their individual needs. These subscription-based products give businesses the advantages of high-quality computing solutions without the high price tag that comes with purchasing or building a custom solution. Developing custom-built software or maintaining an on-site server room is more than most businesses need, but SaskTel software and infrastructure solutions are a great fit for customers of all sizes.

As-a-service allows businesses to manage computing costs and resources without sacrificing quality or security.
